The Encampment

DETROIT, Aug. 5 .- The Twenty-fifth Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. met in formal session this morning. All that art and cultured taste could do to make the mammoth building attractive had been exerted in the decorations which adorned the interior in emblematic order. Despite the immal opening of the encampment and 5,530. directed the Adjutant General to call The Quartermaster General's report the roll of the departments. Every showed assets of $25,000. In touching on the "Negro question" as affecting the G. A. Continuing, he said: "The charge has been made from different sources, that the organization of these posts was tainted with irregularities as to be utterly destructive of their legal existence. Our rules and regulations provide a plain procedure for a department to pursue in order to test the validity of such charges. The departments of Louisiana and Mississippi never, so far as I am informed, resorted to that procedure. I have held, in dealing with those posts, that they must be regarded as having legal existence, until the departments of Louisiana are strong in the conviction that it would be for the best interests of all to have a separate department in Louisiana and some of the other Gulf States, made up of such posts as may apply to come into it and harden in the convention of the Women's Relief Corps opened in this city this morning. The Commander-in-Chief urged the encampment to renew its efforts to pro-cure an amendment to the revised statutes which will give preference to appointment to civil office in the case of Union veterans. Only one new department was chartered in the past year, that of Indian Territory.

The Commander-in-Chief closed his address with a feeling reference to the observance of Memorial Day and the high principles which actuate the G. A. R. SYRACUSE, Aug. 5. - The Grand Opera House, with its seating capacity of over twenty-five hundred, was packed to the ceiling this morning when Hon. W. A. McAlpin called to order the annual convention of the State League of Republican Clubs. Seated on the platform were General James S. Clarkson, ex-Congressman Roswell G. Horr, General Stewart L. Woodford and ex-Senator John C. Spooner. The three hundred clubs in from five to fifteen delegates. Prior der, the New York League band of forty pieces discoursed patriotic music. address. He said that once again the grand old party called them to arms, and once again they must fall into line. They were now organizing for the campaigns of '91 and '92. New York still held the key to success. A Republican victory in the State this fall would ensure the Republicans the Presidency for another term, and it behooved every young Republican to volunteer again for active service and march with the regulars to a Democratic Waterloo. The special committee of the National and State Leagues, which for a month past had been engaged in missionary work throughout the State, had, he said, met with great success. There were now three hundred clubs, by November there would be a thousand and by the Presidential election, two thousand.

Bismarck Writes

PARIS, August 5.—The Figuro of this city has in its columns to-day a letter alleged to have been written by Prince Bismarck to the Russian leader of the German party in St. Petersburg. This letter makes the German ex-Chancellor declare the visit of the French squadron to Cronstadt would not have occurred had he remained is the result of three gross mistakes of German diplomacy. The first mistake was the visit of the Empress Frederick to Paris; the second, the renewal of the Triple Alliance, which was divulged with such eagerness by the Emperor's noisy visit to London.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.), August 5.-The leading manufacturers of agricultural implements throughout the country have formed a compact which virtually amounts to a boycott upon county and State fairs and agricultural exhibitions of all kinds. The agreement, which has been signed by 1,518 of the principal manufacturers, including McCormack, Wm. Deering and Aultman, Miller & Co., reads as follows:

"We hereby agree during the season of 1891 that we will abstain from exhibiting at any and all county and State or other similar expositions."

The reason given for this step is that manufacturers have come to the conclusion that thousands of dollars are spent in this kind of advertising, and, while it goes toward supporting the fairs, it brings no return to them.

CINCINNATI, August 5.-The decision made in the United States Court affecting the title to one hundred and sixty acres of ground on Price Hill, in this city, is such that the owners who built on it will have to pay an aggregate of one million six hundred which this land is situated. The transaction that invalidates the title to this land dates back fifty years. It was the sale of it by Samuel Barr in which, according to the decision of this court, the provisions of the will of Wm. Barr, Sr., who died in 1816. were violated to the detriment of the other heirs, whose descendants are the plaintiffs in this case.

Omaha Strike.

ONAHA, Aug. 5 .- The labor trouble is spreading. More bricklayers went out this morning for seven hours on Saturday, with eight hours' pay. The carpenters threaten to walk out unless granted eight hours, and their demand is now being considered. The probabilities are that a thousand oricklayers will on Saturday demand eight hours. All horse shoers in the city are out for eight hours. There is no change in the strike of the smelters and printers.

California Railroads.

The assessment of railroads for the coming fiscal year was complefed yesterday afternoon. Much pressure was brought to bear upon the State Board of Equalization buring the past several weeks by railroad attorneys and Directors, all making a good showing in order to be assessed at the minimum of value of their respective roads. The represented increase of assessment over last year was made in nine roads, namely: San Fran-000; Nevada, California and Oregon, $10,000; Northern California, $100,000; Southern Pacific, $500,-000; South Pacific Coast, $25,000; Southern California, $100,000; Atlantic and Pacific, $35,000; Pullman Palace Car Company, quarter interest, $151,250; Pullman Palace

Car Company, exclusive, $34,098. Total assessment of all roads, $41,414,000, an increase of $1,215,-348 over last year.

The following are names of the roads and assessed amounts: Sati Francisco and North Pacific, $1,-750,000; North Pacific Coast, $365,-000; Nevada County, $90,000; Nevada, California and Oregon, $94,-000; Carson and Colorado, $230,-Pacific Coast. $380,000; California and Nevada, $5,000; Pajaro Valley $60,000; Gualala River, $50,000; California Pacific, $2,500,000; Central Pacific, $1,300,000; Northern Railway, $3,000,000; Southern Pacific, $15,500,000; Southern Pacific Pulman Palace Car Company, onequarter interest, $161,250; Pulman Palace Car Company, exclusive,

THE Journal this morning contains the following:

Last evening it said:
"The present Administration seems to be doing its best to exclude Chinese immigration by enforcing the law. The present administration has been the only one which has seemed desirous to exclude the Chinese."

The GAZETTZ ought to know, what every school box, especially on the

The GAZETTE ought to know, what every school boy, especially on the Pacific Coast, doubtless does, that the law which it credits the present Administration with enforcing, that is the Chinese Exclusion Act, was passed by a Democratic Congress and signed by the only Democratic president we have had since "befol the wah."

That is the kind of argument (?) the Journal always resorts to when it is cornered, and we fully realize that it is time wasted to pay any attention to its rattle and unprofitable both to the readers of the GAZETTE and to ourselves. The truth is that the Democratic party thought it saw an opporcame down off his pro-Chinese perch after denouncing the attempt to exclude them for more his high office in an attempt to gain popularity and be re-elected, and not for any other purpose. A Republican Senate and a Democratic House passed the bill and Cleveland was cornered and forced to show his hand, and signed the bill for fear that if he vetoed the measure he would lose cast in the West. Hence the Exclusion Act became a law, and the present administration is doing its best to enforce it and keep from our shores the tan-colored pest of the Orient. The very learned and classical editor of the Journal, can call us "ignorant" as much as he likes, for it pleases and amuses him and don't hurt our feelings in the least. But if he would use logic he would undoubtedly please his ready. doubtedly please his readers better.

INVITED HIMSELF.

An Astor-Willing Guest Who Was Not In It'at the Wedding. There is an amusing story as to how an Englishman who was visiting this country at the time of the Astor-Villing wedding managed to get his name in the papers as one of the guests.

It seems, says the Chicago News, the It seems, says the Chicago News, the Englishman made his headquarters in New York, where he is pretty well known, and enjoys the company of a few chosen friends upon his stated visits to this country. He happened to be in the metropolis at the time the wedding was talked about, and jokingly said that he had received an invitation. His acquaintances looked at him in blank amazement. Not one of their set had been invited to the ceremony. ... 25 set had been invited to the ceremony. and they secretly wondered how on eart's the Englishman had managed it. Curiosity finally predominated, and after considerable hesitation the question was put pointblank, when the e. but, said he: "I'll bet anyone here that I can go over to Philadelphia as one of the guests." The bet was taken with considerable odds in the Englishman's favor. Several days before the swell ceremony occurred the Londoner secretly ascertained where the Astors would stop when in the city. Accordingly he went over and selected a suite of the best rooms obtainable at the same hotel, and when the wedding guests began to arrive he came with the crowd, accompanied by a valet and a goodly amount of luggage. He was at once set down as an Astor guest, and his cisco and Northern Pacific, $100,- English manners and accent, which were closely observed, were greatly in his favor. When the reporter came around to get the list of names the Englishman took special pain to see that his name was printed correctly, and, although he never went near the wedding, he had the cheek to return to

New York and claim his bet. All the evidence was in his favor, for both Philadelphia and New York jour-nals gave publicity to his name, and his friends to this day do not know that they were shamefully duped.

DECIDED BY A COIN. The Goddess of Chance Invoked by Mr. Stanley in Africa.

In a little speech to the New York Press club the other evening Henry M.

In Central Africa it was not the fashion to indulge in after-dinner oratory and he was consequently somewhat out of practice. The Gazette ought to inform (post) again, and each time the coin said that Stanley should not go on. Then he had recourse to long and short straws and three times this divination declared that the explorer should turn back.

But he was still not satisfied to go back. He thought that something must be the matter with the rupee and the straws, and so he cast aside the prophecies of both and went on following the course of the great river until he found whence it came. When he returned to London after this expedition he found the Geographical society debating whether it should call him a pirate or give him a dinner. It finally decided to give him a dinner.

Reno Evening Gazette LOOKING OUT THE GOLDEN GATE.

Dimly Out to the Present. We wrote last concerning our pilgrimage to the tombs of Broderick and Baker, and, naturally, followed reflections upon the manner of Broderick's death. Recollections of Terry arose vividly before us for we had known him since the early days in California and but a few years ago had entertained him and his wife-Sarah-Althea-at our table. As a guest we found him first class in payments, easily satisfied and always dignified and courteous. We have no desire to recall more of the past, and would not have reverted to this much of it, had not the visit to Laurel Hill been followed on the same day, and not

three hours afterward by

MEETING DAVE NAGLE, Who greeted us, as we did him, with a cheery "Hello" as we faced each other. So much was written at the time of Terry's death, concerning Nagle, that partook of the grossest exag-gerations, that we may be excused for telling now something of the char-acteristics of the man, whom we have met in the many mining camps of the interior during the past twenty-five years. We have seen him facing dangers that proved his courage, and his coolness in the most passionate scenes was remarkable. It was attributed mainly to the fact that he never indulged in intoxicating drink, and was never the aggressor. We have seen some of the worst cut-throats put up their guns at his command to keep the their guns at his command to keep the peace; but all this was not as severe a test of courage, as when in Arizona, he was prostrated with a liver complaint and was informed by Dr. Goodfellow that the only relief to be obtained would be through an operation, that would require cutting into the cavity and detaching it from the walls to which it was growing. He niaced to which it was growing. He placed himself upon the operating table and underwent the painful operation with-out resort to any anaesthetic and quietly watched the doctor's movements without ever wincing. The operation was successful and he carries the scar yet in mute testimony to his courage; and it is certainly an evidence of courage when a man can quietly watch a

A RIDE TO SUTRO HEIGHTS on the steam railway furnished opportuntly for reflections on the far away plut of lost youth, when as a boy in the early '50's we steamed through the Narrows on the Pacific mail boat, the old "Golden Gate." It was our first light of the land of gold, upon which our imagination had fed for many months. The occasion was one of great moment. The excitement, fed on expectation, was one of intense interest. The long voyage was drawing to a close. The borning was clear for that locality; the decks were densely packed with passengers, for the ship carried 1,400 people, and all that could were out looking for the promised land, over which the glam-On the steam railway furnished opour of romance hovered; eager looks were on every countenance; tears of joyful expectation and lips quivering "with joy that resembled sadness, as the mist resembles the rain," told the thoughts of loving wives—martyrs to duty and affection—coming to greet the sight.

To-day, the ocean was so peaceful; a gentle swell sent the ripples up on the sands of the beach, with little loving caresses that were in vivid contrast to the feverish life of the years of struggle and con-tention that have passed since the days of boyhood. We felt a chill of more than regret passing over us—for we had left our overcoat and a fog was coming on—and with a sigh for sad memories, we turned from early recol-lections, whistled in content "Home Again" and faced the daily tasks and toil that invite sweet repose and for-grain of Nevada. The writer planted 20 acres in rye at the Holstein ranch last Fall and it never had a drop of water. Ten acres were cut for hay and the rest left to mature. Two heads of the grain counted the other day contained 56 and 57 kernels respectively, all plump and full. Rye can never fail in this country if planted in the Fall, and it reaches maturity without irrigation.

Charles Bush, the Forger, Leave

Chas. Bush, one of the men arrested for forging O. Lonkey's name to checks and selling them to A. Nelson and Dan O'Keiffe, in some manner as yet upknown to the Sheriff and his depunknown to the Sheriff and his dep-uty, escaped from jail yesterday. It is supposed that he walked out with the chain gang yesterday, unobserved. Another theory advanced is that when Deputy John Caughlin went to lock up last night that Bush, instead of going to his cell, stepped behind the cell and when Johnny stepped in to lock them up walked out, as the main door leading to the jail was unguarded. The officers have telegraphed in every direction for the culprit and will most likely catch him before many days.

EDITOR GAZETTE: We have jus opened our eyes and shaken the salt water from our locks, ready to take a turn on the bicycle. A party here from Montana, looking for a cottage, on hearing of the "restric-tions," one of the young ladies ejaculated, "No dancing, no theaters, no ements; we should die of ennui." They passed by to other sea side resorts. Fresh as a daisy "on the light fantastic toe." Dancing is a sin, while kiss in the ring and bunt the slipper is a luxury after their own hearts. The sweet breath of the open sea, laden with its stimulating ozone, penetrating the blood gives new life to man and is sufficient for the most restless ones that come here to recuperate, so the restrictive inherited bigotry of by gone ages that hangs around this place does not yex their mortal souls, so long as it does not prohibit the wearing of bathing suits for nocturnal gowns, walking on the beach, strolling in the woods and the like.

AN INTERESTING CAREER.

Ristory of an Artist Who Painted a Picture Three Miles Long.

Paporama of the Entire Miss Liver Drawn from Sketches Made

John Banvaro, the artist, died the other day in Waterto, S. D., of heart filters. His career as a rist, a travcler and an adventurer was unique and interesting, says the New York and the story of his life is full of inci dents that go beyond the usual. lie was born in New York about 1920, and his youthful days were spent in scale of drawing and painting, for which he showed a decided taste at an early age. When he was fifteen years is father died, after losing his projecty, and the boy went to Louisclerk in a drug store. A year later he had opened a studio and established himself as an artist. He did not long romain in Louisville, but after painting exeral pieces he started out to earn his living by exhibiting them, and he vis ited New Orleans, Natchez, Cincinnati and other towns, going by boat, and hour inted up for the occasion.

He made a scanty living and met many adventures and hardships. One of his pictures, made about this time, was a panorama of Venice, which he or inte wholly from imagination, and While on one of his river trips, Mr a programa of the entire Mississippi Bany rd conceived the idea of painting hat to t picture in the world. He set at it in 1840. Alone, in an open stand with no outfit except his rifle and his drawing instruments, Le traveled thousands of miles. When his rifle failed to bring him necessary food be pointed pictures and exhibited them to make money enough to buy food and re plenish his materials. For more than a year he lived in this way, and when his preparatory drawings were done he erected a building in Louisville, where they were transferred to canvas and first exhibited. The artist's ambition was realized. The painting was the largest ever made, and, complete, it covered three miles of canvas. It was one of the wonders of the day, after the people heard about it, and was exhibited in many cities of this country and abroad, attracting much attention.

Aiter a series of exhibitions in Europe the artist traveled extensively in Asia and Africa and painted many pictures which were exhibited. Among these was a panorama called "Pictures and Poetry of Palestine," and another composed of three pictures, "First Battle-l'ield of History," "Siege of Jerusa-lem-Destruction of the Temple," and Ruins of Edom."

During the war Mr. Banvard pointed out to Gen. Fremont how Island No. 10 could be passed by a canal and certain gons, and he made charts showing the route. His suggestions were afterward steedssfully followed. He was a pro-In writer and was the author of about cen hundred poems, several hundred of which have been published in magazines here and in Great Britain. also published "A Description of the Mississippi River," "Pilgrimage to the Holy Land," "Amasis; or, The Last of the Pharoahs," "The Private Life of a King," and "Tradition of the Tem-

Two of his dramas have been acted; "Amasis," at the Boston theater in 1864, and "Carrinia," at the Broadway theater in 1875. One of his paintings, "The Orison," was the picture from which the first chromo made in America was taken. Nearly a quarter of a century ago Mr. Banvard established panorama in what was ther Wood's museum on Broadway, which afterward became Daly's theater Here his pictures were exhibited, and, with his lectures, attracted considerable attention. Critics have said that Mr. Banvard's pictures were not great in artistic merit. They were remarkable because of their magnitude and the rapidity with which he made them. When exhibiting his panorama he accompanied the pictures with a descriptive lecture, which often was a feature of his enter tainments.

Chinese in California

Notwithstanding the Chinese ex-clusion act, the Chinese population of California at this time numbers 71,681, showing that there has been a very slight decrease within the past ten years. Many of the Chinese residents of the state have returned to their native country within these years, and many have left California for other states. There has been no increase of the Chinese population through the birth of children, as but very few ese women have ever been brought to this country. There need be no doubt, says the New York Sun, that Chinamen reach California from British Columbia, to which they take passage from Hong Kong. The federal government is trying to put a stop to this migration, which goes on in violation of the exclusion act, and it is reported that a letter on the subject was recent-ly sent to the British Canadian customs department, which replied that it had no power to interfere with the movements of Chinamen who arrive in Canada and pay the poll tax. It is only by the vigorous enforcement of the ex-clusion act along the whole line of the Canadian border that the influx of Chinamen to this country can be pre-

The Italian at Sea. An Italian is a queer fish, says an old seaman. He won't take a berth on a ship that does not feed his bill of fare. ship that does not feed his bill of fare. When they go into a ticket office their interpreter haks for the bill of fare, which is published by some of the lines, along with their advertisements. He scans it closely, and the first one which sets out a regular Italian meal, gartic, macaroni, Italian wines and the like is the one he closes on as though it represented so many dollars. You can't switch them to any other line after they have sized up the feed. Money is good for them, but macaroni and garlic are more desirable and the line that feeds them those edibles is the one that gets their money.

A FOOLISH RESTRICTION. It Is Not "Good Form" to Carry Parcels in England.

In London it is not considered "good form" for a gentleman to carry through the streets a parcel, however small or elegantly wrapped. He may carry a book, if it is not too large and is not wrapped up, for a book is a book; but a parcel may be a pound of cheese or a dozen red herring. The restriction is a foolish one; a form of class distinction that is inconsistent with the highest civilization, in which every man will be a gentleman if he is thoughtfully con-siderate of others, whether he is a laborer or rides in a carriage. The auther of "England, Without and Within," gives an anecdote of an easy-going English gentleman, who was not bound by the absurd law against parcel-carry-

A shoemaker had missent to him a pair of shoes intended for a neighbor, and had probably sent to the neighbor the shoes that should have been sent to him. As he had no prejudice against carrying bundles he went with the shoes to his friend's house.
On arriving at his friend's door he asked to see Mr. Dash, but was understood by the servant to ask for Mrs. Dash, and was ushered into her presence. The lady, who had never seen him before, looked up and curtly asked: "Mr. Dash's shoes," replied the gentleman. "Oh, yes; 'it's all right. Mr. Dash is out, but he'll be in soon, and if you want to see him you'd better take a seat in the hall and wait till he comes

"But, madam-" began the gentleman who was a baronet's son. "Never mind, never mind; it's all right. Step out in the hall, please, and wait for Mr. Dash."

The gentleman, of course, appreciated the situation at once. But he was too well-bred, and had too keen a sense of humor to explain, which would have both mortified the lady and prevented him from enjoying her mistake. He stepped into the hall, intending to give the shoes to a servant and leave the

But meeting his friend coming in, he gave him the shoes and, after a few words, bade him good morning. Though ressed to remain, he refused, knowing that his return to the wife's presene would cause her embarrassment.

His consideration for the feelings of another person would have made him a gentleman if he had been a hod-carrier.
